2. MEDICAL PRECAUTIONS

We know we are very excited to run on race day. However, it's imperative you listen to your body before, during and after your run. Most medical emergencies during the race occur in people who have not adequately trained or are unwell and push themselves on race day. If you feel feverish, or have been vomiting, have had diarrhoea or chest pains or generally are feeling unwell, then it is unfair to you and your family to risk serious illness and become a medical emergency. Runners need to take responsibility for their own health by adopting right practices regarding training, eating and hydration.

Before coming on race day, do review these medical scenarios. In case your answer is YES to any of these medical scenarios, you seek your doctor's clearance for participating in the race.

No, no – your eyes are not damaged

It's your brain. It's suffering from loss of focus. Common thing really – it's happening to all of us. Remember when you could sit down and write a 500-word essay in one go?

Try that now. You don't want to? Hmm...

Without realising it, your mind is losing its ability to focus. Because everything around is telling it to jump. From this to not this. Then back to this. Now to that. And the other. Shifting focus all the time and not concentrating on any one thing at all. When was the last time you read 103 words at one go? That's 109 now, and you'll see your focus is returning. Reading does that.

Reading grabs hold of your mind and keeps it engaged on just one thing. With the disturbances shut out, your brain can get back to being sharp. Memory gets sharper too. And imagination more vivid. Your ideation improves. Soon, you're halfway to being Einstein...

Don't stop, now that you've started. Pick up a book and carry right on.

7. ON CROSSING THE FINISH LINE

The time limit for completing the CWD distance is 8:00 a.m. If you are unable to finish your run within this time, stick to one side of the road (as directed by event volunteers), and make your way to the finish line. Half Marathon elite runners will get priority on the route towards the finish from 7:45 a.m. onwards.

Please respect the Finish Line. Do not stand at the finish line to pose for pictures or wait for your fellow participants. Remember other participants too deserve a great finish experience.

Once you have cross the Finish Line, you cannot re-enter the course during the race time, with or without your running number bib. Your participation is liable to be disqualified on re-entering the course.

FACILITIES PROVIDED POST THE FINISH LINE

Bisleri water station. Refilling stations too will be available to refill your used bottle.

Finisher Medal. Capture the moment with your finisher medal, upload and tag @delhihalfmarathon on your social media handle.

- We need your help to keep the race litter free.
- Participants encouraged to bring their own water bottle to the event which can be refilled at the refill counters provided at water stations.
